

It's the National Online Safety Christmas song!

Cancel the lords a-leaping, because we've got two teachers singing! At National Online Safety, our seasonal song-writing synergy with Sam and Dan from MusicAlternative is now as much a part of the festivities as pulling crackers, wrapping awkwardly shaped presents and Noddy Holder bellowing "It's Chriiistmaaaaaas!" It just wouldn't seem like a proper Yuletide without it. This year we've produced a special #WakeUpWednesday lyric sheet, so you can sing along if the mood takes you. There's no doubt you'll know the tune, as our 2021 offering is an affectionate homage to a modern festive classic – and very probably the only Christmas song you'll hear this year (possibly ever) which references the iPhone ProMax, Zoom calls and TikTok. Grab yourself a glass of something nice ... and enjoy!

Read on to access the music video ...

Hang on to your Santa hats, because those two wise men Dan and Sam from Musicalalternative have worked with us again to produce the 2021 National Online Safety Christmas song. It'll help everyone get into the mood for the holiday season, and (we're speaking from experience here!) you might struggle not to sing our version of the lyrics the next time you hear this Christmas hit.

It's all just a bit of festive fun – but the song's message is still important. Digital technology does come with many risks, of course, but it's an excellent way to stay in touch with the people we care about (especially at this time of year) and let them know how much they mean to us – even if we can't see them in person. Happy Christmas everyone, from all at National Online Safety.

